

PROFESSOR SMITH, OF GEORGIA, CURED OF NERVOUS PROSTRATION.

PROF. A. M. SMITH.

Prof. A. M. Smith, Principal Fuller Academy, of Vicksburg, Ga., writes:

"Allow me please to express to you my sincere thanks for your wonderful life-giving medicine, Peruna."

"For the past two or three years I have been troubled with nervousness, at times resulting in almost nervous prostration. Recently I have had very severe attacks and was induced by a friend to try Peruna. This I have done with more than satisfactory results and consider Peruna the best medicine on the market to-day for what it is recommended."

"I have a brother who thinks it is the greatest thing in the world. To all who suffer with nervousness in any form I would say 'use Peruna.' With best wishes and many thanks for your splendid medicine, I remain sincerely, 'A. M. Smith.'"

HAS AS MANY LIVES AS A PROVERBIAL CAT

WILLIAMSTON, Ky., July 18.—Jake Billiter, an old resident of this place, has more lives than the proverbial cat. Since he first saw the light of day, nearly 75 years ago, until the present time, his existence has been one continual round of accidents, almost any one of which would have caused the death of an ordinary man. He was born in Grant County, Ky., Sept. 19, 1827. While he was still a small boy his mother died and he was thrown on his own resources. At the age of 13 he was thrown from a horse and his skull was fractured, and for a long time it was thought he would die. He surprised everybody by getting well. Next he fell from a wagon and broke a limb. He had just got well enough to work when the most remarkable accident of all occurred. He was working at the carpenter's trade on a building in this town when he fell a distance of 30 feet. The onlookers thought sure he would be killed, but not so; his chin hung on a nail and he hung suspended for five minutes, until he was rescued by the other workmen. The scars of the fall may yet be seen. In 1861 he was bitten by a mad dog, but was hurried to a madhouse and he adhered to the wound for hours. He has never felt any ill effects from the bite, but was bitten by the same dog the same day died of rabies. While drinking from a stream of water several years later he swallowed some hard substance. He felt discomfort at a few days later he had to undergo an operation to spit up blood and complain of continual clanking in his stomach. He went to a doctor and the latter told him to eat what he would and he threw up a live crawfish and great quantities of blood. While as-

Hon. Martin W. Wheelock, of Montpelier, Vt., in a letter to The Peruna Medicine Co., says:

"I have always had a strong antipathy against giving any testimonial in regard to proprietary medicine, but after much investigation was convinced that yours was worthy. I have been troubled with what is termed post nasal catarrh, causing an oppressive feeling in the head and considerable nervousness and sick headache."

"Noting the wonderful testimonials from eminent men regarding Peruna, the great remedy for catarrh, I concluded to and did try a bottle of Peruna. I must acknowledge that the medicine seems to possess tonic, warming and remedial virtue in excess of other medicines and that the use of Peruna in my case has been advantageous and that I have faith enough in its medicinal value to continue its use."—Martin W. Wheelock.

Mr. John F. Schmidt of Carthage, Ohio, says:

"Peruna has saved my life. For five years the best doctors had pronounced me incurable. I suffered with a complication of diseases—palpitation of the heart, nervousness, weakness and dyspepsia. A few bottles of Peruna cured me. Peruna cannot be beaten. I weigh 185 pounds, but I will never be without Peruna in the house."—John F. Schmidt.

Peruna is a Natural and Efficient Nervine Tonic.

Peruna strengthens and restores the activity of every nerve in the body. Through the use of Peruna the weakened or overworked nerves resume their natural strength and the blood vessels at once begin to regulate the flow of blood according to Nature's laws. Congestions immediately disappear. All phases of catarrh, acute or chronic, are promptly and permanently cured.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

THE COOLEST OF HEADWEAR

It is the Filipino Hat, Made of Cane, and Now Brought to New York.

NEW YORK, July 18.—The coolest thing in the way of masculine headgear seen in these parts in many moons is the Filipino hat, which was offered for sale on the streets today. These hats are the most recent of the imports from our new possessions. The hat is made of what closely resembles the cane used in the rice fields, but is much lighter in weight. The material is closely plaited and the hat looks like a cross between a choong bowl and a Soudan helmet, with out the helmet's crown. The hat is so constructed that the headgear proper does not touch the head at all. It is lined with a light fabric and green in color, and to the crown is attached steel band, covered with oiled silk, which band rests upon the head and supports the hat. The result is that the forehead and beyond the back of the head, so that all the air there is stirring and the hat plays at one's command. At the back the hat tapers off like a fireman's helmet. The Filipino bonnets are much lighter than any straw hat known hereabouts and they are certainly much cooler.

CHRISTIAN SCIENTIST FINED.

Judge Sidener Stayed It on Payment of Costs.

George W. Barrett, a Christian Scientist, pleaded guilty in the City Hall Police Court Thursday morning to the charge of practicing medicine without being a registered physician. Judge Sidener stayed the fine upon the payment of $5 costs.

Dr. Thomas Reber, mortuary clerk, and other representatives of the health department were present. They certify that Barrett had signed a burial certificate and that he was not a registered physician. Their testimony was rendered unnecessary by the defendant's plea.

The case was regarded by the Board of Health as a test case against Christian Scientists.

BUYING STREET RAILWAYS.

Extensive Plans of the Everett-Moore Syndicate.

NEW YORK, July 18.—E. W. Moore of Cleveland, a member of the Everett-Moore syndicate controlling some 1200 miles of suburban railroads, is in the city today announcing that he is negotiating for the consolidation of all the street railways in and about the cities of Cleveland, Toledo and Detroit, as well as the roads connecting those points.

NOT BETTING ON A GAME.

Ruling of an Indiana Judge on Dealing in Futures.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 18.—Federal Judge Baker ruled today that betting on the future price of commodities is not betting on a game under the Indiana law, and money lost in this state cannot be recovered. Election bets cannot be recovered. The ruling was in the suit of James Boyce of Muncie, Ind., to recover $24,000 from the Odell Commission Co. of Cincinnati.

TEMPERATURE CONTINUES HIGH IN MISSISSIPPI VALLEY.

Conditions as to Crops Are Improving in Parts of Kansas and Central and Western Missouri.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Rains are gradually relieving the drouth in the stricken sections of the West and Southwest, but not enough rain has fallen to materially change the condition of crops.

In the past 40 hours the most extended area of rainfall was in Kansas, extending southeastward from Topeka to Wichita.

Light rains in limited areas have fallen in southeastern Texas, western Arkansas, southeastern Kansas, southeastern Nebraska, over the greater portion of the Dakotas and Minnesota, in northwestern Iowa, central and northeastern Missouri, central and southern Illinois, central Indiana, southern Michigan and central and southeastern Ohio.

The temperature continues excessively high over lower Missouri, Mississippi and Ohio valleys and from central Texas northward, over Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 18.—Heavy storms swept Indiana last night. There were hailstorms about Columbus, Kokomo and Union City, which cut cornfields to pieces. In other sections benefit to the crop is reported. The state statistician's office today estimates the damage to the Indiana corn crop in the past month at only 5 per cent.

COLUMBUS, O., July 18.—A severe rain and hail storm visited the western part of the state last night. Frolic County being the greatest sufferer. Corn and oats crops were almost totally destroyed.

BETTER OUTLOOK IN MISSOURI.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 18.—Good rains are reported again last night in southeastern Kansas and western Missouri and in central Kansas and southern Missouri this morning. The temperature in Kansas City at 10 o'clock this morning was 81, with a light breeze from the west. The outlook for Missouri and Kansas for cooler weather and thunderstorms during the day.

THE Earth Opens and Smokes.

GAINESVILLE, Tex., July 18.—Mr. Valpey, a merchant of this city who has just returned from a trip to the western part of the county, reports that in the extreme west and just across the line there is considerable apprehension and much excitement among the inhabitants over the possibility of a dark smoke which is said to be coming from the ground. The smoke comes from an area covering a quarter of an acre and from these the smoke comes in a column, rising at times and the people are apprehensive.

ST. LOUIS THE ONLY DRY SPOT

E. E. Spencer, acting weather forecast official of St. Louis says:

"Rains occurred last night all over Missouri, with the possible exception of St. Louis and a few places south of the river. It was not a heavy fall, but sufficient to freshen vegetation and materially relieve the corn crops."

"St. Louis felt just a trace of rain in the western part of the city."

"Kansas, South Dakota and states in the north and along the river."

"At Kansas City the precipitation was .30, this being about the heaviest for Missouri."

"It is cloudy throughout Missouri today and indications are not to our favor for thunderstorms tonight. We will have cooler weather by Friday."

"The atmospheric conditions remain practically unchanged, there being no well defined area of high and low barometric pressure. Slightly cooler temperature prevails over the country west of the Mississippi river."

"I Am Very Sorry."

From the Pittsburgh Commercial Gazette.

"I noticed in the newspapers an announcement that the Bank of England had decided to raise the rate of discount from 4 to 5 per cent. Money is reported to be extremely low on the London market, lending freely as low as 2 1/2 per cent."

"And yet you can't lend me $5. I don't need $10 this time, you see."

"Mr. Long shook his head and tried to move on. 'Can't do it.'"

"'Not even $1?'"

"'Well, I can lend you a quarter.'"

"'No! not a quarter even.'"

"'Well, I added Mr. Short dispiritedly, 'I shall never again believe the papers when they say that money is easy and loans are being made at low rates. You, sir, have denied. Good morning, sir.'"

"'Good-morning.'"

Reforms That Were Expensive.

From America's Magazine.

About three-quarters of a railroad's receipts come from the freight department. The passenger department supplies nearly all the rest. It is a little or no chance to expand except as the passenger department is able to do so. The matter, or would be, if it were not for the fact that the passenger department is not now and has not been for some time a paying department for railroad passenger service.

In Ohio a law was passed decreeing that the weight between the platform and the lowest step of passenger coaches should not exceed 12 inches. This cost the railroads nearly $100,000 and the reform led to the abolition of a number of fat steps where the passengers have been quite willing to scramble up off the platform.

EVAN OGAN SUES RAILROAD.

Says Spark From Locomotive Set Fire to His House.

Evan Ogan of 131 Cherokee street brought suit Thursday against the St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railway for $2201.50. He alleges that household goods of that value were destroyed on March 18 last in a fire started by a spark from an Iron Mountain locomotive.

Ogan says that his house adjoined a frame ice house which stands between Main and Barrack streets and Cherokee and Utah streets. This is the ice house belonging to the Ansauer-Buch brewery which, with several surrounding buildings, burned in March.

Ogan contends that a spark from a locomotive set fire to the ice house and that this house caught fire from that source. His household goods were destroyed, he asserts. He says that he has asked the railroad company to make reparation, but it has failed to do so.

Our Doctor-Governor.

From Harper's Weekly.

It is a somewhat common-sense fashion among those who cannot learn to their own purpose in Ohio refer to Gov. Wood as a "General Wood." These people are too short-sighted to see that after all this spirit which they speak in contempt and derision is rather a just distinction than otherwise. Certainly Governor Wood does not hesitate to take such a designation.

DIED FACING SATAN

SUICIDE WENT TO CONEY ISLAND TO KILL HIMSELF.

TOOK BOAT IN SCENIC TUNNEL

As He Passed Through the Allegorical Hades He Fired the Shot That Ended His Existence.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 18.—Really there is no accounting for a suicide's taste. This one selected that merriest of merry places—Coney Island—as his jumping-off place and standing with his back toward Satan he killed himself so that all might see the ghastly sight.

While the negro minstrels were merrily chorusing to a ragtime accompaniment in the "old mill" scenic tunnel, the big crowd of pleasure seekers heard a pistol shot, and the next instant the body of a man with a wound in his head shot past them in one of the boats of the mill stream.

The ghastly spectacle, coming suddenly into the glare of the electric lights from the darkness of the cavern and passing to the left, drew the attention of those on the sidewalk saw the upturned face of the suicide, caused many to scream with fright and rush away in every direction. The negro minstrel was terror-stricken and their song ended abruptly.

The man, who is believed to be William Welterhold of Murray Hill, N. J., ended his life with a seeming cynicism, the boat that carried him passed through an allegorical scene of the underworld of the tunnel, just opposite an enormous figure of Satan when he fired the shot. He had evidently killed himself in a fit of rage. He had ridden five successive times through the tunnel. On the first four trips there were other passengers and in the fifth he was alone.

WONDERS

If eggs are maxims
Should lay an egg in Olive street
The thing would stop the trolley cars
And scare the copper off his beat.

Strange things. Monkey-faced owl for instance. Looks like a monkey and a noise like a waltzer bottle. It is not the monkey-faced owl that lays the big eggs, but another bird. One of the eggs fried boiled, poached or scrambled would make a meal for sixty hungry men. The ostrich looks like a dwarf beside this bird.

Speaking of dwarfs, there is the queerest little couple in the world in Missouri. The big round earth looks mighty big to them but they love little things. The woman is beautiful and the man can work as hard and make as much money as a real "grown-up." See their pictures and measurements in the Sunday Post-Dispatch.

The newest of all new women live near St. Louis. They are not new because they have taken up some outlandish fad, but because they are studying a science that has hitherto claimed the attention of men exclusively. They have done some wonderful things. Their portraits and the story of their achievements will be printed only in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch.

He didn't like beer
And he didn't like real.
'And he couldn't eat bacon or eggs.
But he died like King
On crickets and ants
And fricasseed spiders' legs.

Worms and bugs and things like that have been put on the food list. Some of them have been pronounced edible by eminent scientists who had the courage to taste them. One of the most civilized nations in the world considers these things delicacies.

The next Sunday Post-Dispatch will be full of good things for women. It will be a mirror of feminine fashion, feminine follies and feminine thought.

A St. Louis woman with horse sense has set a remarkable pace for equestriennes. She is a modern Joan of Arc. Maybe you know her. See the superb pictures in half-tone and color illustrating her achievement.

A Filipino belle is a dainty and fascinating creature, clad in the strangest of garments. A Missouri soldier who climbed one of the highest mountains in the world under fire brought to St. Louis a complete Filipino costume. A beautiful woman donned it. A camera saw her, and the result was a series of remarkable pictures reproduced by the Sunday Post-Dispatch.

The greatest of living humorists has one of the most beautiful summer homes in the world. A representative of the Sunday Post-Dispatch was with him for a day and photographed him in characteristic attitudes.

Missouri has the greatest bed of coal in the world. An immense store of wealth lies a few feet under the surface. The earth's supply of fuel will never give out while Missouri is on the map. There will be a complete story of this wonderful coal bed with splendid half-tone illustrations in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch.

Fashionable women have discarded long stockings and have taken to half hose. Reproductions of photographs will show you how they look. The half hose will be a popular fad if it is kept up.

Two boys who live in the South traveled around the world on a capital of 50 cents. One of them kept a diary, portions of which will be reproduced in the next Sunday Post-Dispatch. It is a story of thrilling adventures and unheard of hardships.

COUNT TOLSTOI IMPROVES.

The Great Author's Condition Was for a Time Serious.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 18.—Count Leo Tolstoy, who has been suffering from a severe attack of fever, rallied yesterday and was much better. It appears that, in spite of prohibition of his doctors, Count Tolstoy insisted upon going out in wet weather. He succumbed to an attack of fever on July 14. The following day his fever was much more violent and continued rising until July 15. The author's improvement was noted in the count's condition.

July 14 the author suffered a relapse, his strength diminished considerably, his pulse beat as high as in the course of the night, and his condition was extremely critical. He slept soundly later on, however, and showed perceptible improvement during that day.

During the illness the count constantly spoke of his work and all his family were at his bedside.

A SERIO-COMEDY.

How funny is the funniest man in the world when he is on his vacation? Does he tell jokes to himself in sylvan solitudes?

COURT'S ORDER TAKES HOMES

A Remarkable Injunction Against Striking Workmen.

THEIR HOUSES ARE THEIR BOND

FORBIDDEN TO IN ANY MANNER INTERFERE WITH FORMER EMPLOYER.

Violation of the Injunction Means That Their Property Will Be Forfeited to the State of Connecticut.

SPECIAL TO THE POST-DISPATCH.
DERBY, Conn., July 18.—The most drastic injunction ever issued in Connecticut threatens the sacrifice of 70 pretty homes dotting the city of Ansonia, a large pleasure park, a building boom and business generally. The injunction was procured by the Farrell Foundry and Machine Co., and was issued by Judge of the Superior Court Edwin S. Gager. It attaches all property owned by the strikers in the sum of $20,000 each to compel them to obey the court's mandate.

The strikers are prohibited from "in any manner interfering with any persons who may desire to enter the employ of the plaintiff, by way of threat, persuasion, personal violence, intimidation or other means, calculated or intended to prevent such persons from entering or continuing in the employ of the plaintiff or calculated to induce such persons to leave the employ of the plaintiff, from boycotting the plaintiff and the plaintiff's workmen, either by threats, intimidations, persuasion or otherwise."

Every conceivable act tending to injure the company is prohibited of every striker and sympathizer, whose name shall be learned, should any person not named disobey the injunction through the influence of those named, the latter's property can be claimed for damages.

Of the 70 homes, nearly all have been obtained only after long years of labor and thrift in the Farrell shops. The handsome, a $2000 house, belongs to Belle Whiting.

Recreation Park, Ansonia's chief pleasure resort, was about to be sold by Jacob Wright to a syndicate. The injunction prevents the sale and the park will remain closed all summer.

James Kelly bought 20 acres of land to be cut into building lots, a suburb laid out and eventually incorporated with the city of Derby. A lot can now be sold.

Nearly all the homes attached are mechanics' pretty cottages. The act of one man may subject them all to the meaning of the clause claiming damages. Some say caused the founding of the strike. In the latter, which began May 20, forced sales would be necessary and the foundry would come into possession of a large collection of tenements.

GIRL TO BREAK A BOTTLE ON TORPEDO BOAT'S NOSE

Miss Isabelle Truxton.

NORFOLK, Va., July 18.—Miss Isabelle Truxton is the acknowledged reigning beauty of Norfolk. She has been chosen to christen the torpedo boat named for her illustrious ancestor, Commodore Thomas

DAYTON STREET POLICE COURT

A new code of judicial ethics now prevails at the Dayton Street Police Court. The author is Acting Judge Jeff W. Pollard, whose theories of justice are not calculated to comfort the soul of the chronic law-breaker.

Here are some of the rules which the Judge enunciated Thursday morning: "Any man who works and shows me that he is supporting or helping to support a family will not go to the workhouse if he is convicted of peace disturbance."

Where the offense is repeated after leniency has been shown this rule will be reversed and the offender given severe punishment.

A prisoner who has appeared in this court more than once during the past year will receive the full limit of the law.

I will not send a boy under 18 years of age to the House of Refuge as long as there is a probationary law on the statute books.

The practice, common heretofore in this court, of releasing prisoners arrested for disturbance of the peace because they did not care to prosecute each other is abolished. When two persons fight they disturb the peace of others, and for that reason should be punished.

I believe many quarrels are traceable to the excessively hot weather, and I shall make allowances with prisoners while the temperature stands at the 100 mark.

I will hear appeals for clemency from the mother, sister, father or brother of any man who is sentenced to a term in the workhouse.

The deputies of this court, city attorney and spread, witnesses are not found guilty of any further violation of the city of the last Legislature.

The order to the probationary officer received against the defendants is stayed for the space of six months from date hereof, provided they are not found guilty of any further violation of the city of the last Legislature.

A FITTING TRIBUTE.

A Citizen of St. Louis Pays a Well-Earned Tribute.

The following public statement of a respected citizen adds one more emphatic endorsement of merit to the scores that have appeared before.

Mr. W. J. Kern, living at 2212 South Eleventh street, fireman at the Anheuser-Busch Brewery ice plant, says: "I had attacks of kidney complaint for over five years, and during that time was laid up on two or three occasions, once for two weeks. Before I went to Wolff-Wilson Drug Co. for Doan's Kidney Pills had exhausted all my knowledge of kidney medicines and plasters. The latter, on account of the heat I am subjected to as fireman, usually dropped off in two days. If Doan's Kidney Pills had not cured the last attack of backache I never would have recommended the pills to more than one of my friends and acquaintances."

Sold by all dealers. Price, 50c per box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

THE DREAD CHARBON

DISEASE IS KILLING 90 PER CENT OF INFECTED ANIMALS.

NOW EPIDEMIC IN THE SOUTH

It is Defined as "Anthrax" by St. Louis Physicians and Veterinarians.

JACKSON, Miss., July 18.—After carefully and personally investigating the epidemic of charbon among the live stock in Bolivar, Washington, Coahoma and Sunflower Counties, Gov. Longino has decided to take vigorous steps toward stamping it out.

He reports that fully 90 per cent of the animals infected have died with the disease, causing untold loss to the farmers and planters.

The situation, however, is considerably improved, and it is believed by the government that a spread to other sections of the state can be prevented. The work of vaccination is getting in its effect and is proving an excellent remedy in checking the disease. The anthrax virus being very efficacious.

The patients in the Delta, especially those in Bolivar County, will suffer heavily from the charbon epidemic, and as they had not vaccinated their crops it will be difficult to get stock with which to complete the work.

Regarding the disease, "charbon," now prevalent in Mississippi and Tennessee, Dr. A. Darling, veterinary surgeon of St. Louis, says:

"Charbon, or anthrax, as it is more commonly called, is the most fatal of all animal diseases. It is curable, but the death rate is about 85 or 90 per cent.

"It is a germ disease and finds its origin mostly in swamps and where there is decaying vegetation. The germ is infectious; never contagious. Once into the system it multiplies at the rate of about 1,000,000 an hour. It is less liable to affect horses than cattle, although it is virulent in all animal life. One case is sufficient to cause an epidemic of the disease.

JOHN L. LOYET MENTALLY ILL.

Former Capitalist Taken to City Hospital for Observation.

John L. Loyet, for many years a prominent figure in St. Louis business circles who is said to have made and lost several large fortunes, was taken to the City Hospital for observation Thursday.

Financial troubles coupled with the excessive heat are thought to have unbalanced his mind.

Mr. Loyet was sent to the hospital at the request of his sons, Valentine and Anthony Loyet, who told the authorities that their father had displayed extreme violence at home. They declared him confined and they could make arrangements to send him to a private institution.

MRS. ZACH TINKER WAS ROBBED

Jewelry Valued at $2000 Were Taken From a Bathhouse at Allenhurst, N. J.

Dispatches from Asbury Park, N. J., announce that Mrs. Zach W. Tinker, wife of a well-known St. Louisan, was robbed of jewelry valued at $2000 at Allenhurst Wednesday. The jewels were taken from a bathhouse, on the beach, where Mrs. Tinker had deposited them while bathing in the surf.

Local detectives have been detailed on the case, and the chief of police of New York City has been requested, by telegram, to lend his assistance in locating the missing jewels.

Mrs. and Mr. Tinker and their daughter went East July 5 and located at a hotel in Allenhurst. Half an hour after their arrival she broke out in the hotel, which destroyed considerable property belonging to the Tinkers. The jewels, which are greatly prized by Mrs. Tinker, were saved.

After the fire, Tinkers occupied temporary quarters near the burned hotel. Later they rented the Furman cottage. Mrs. Tinker left her entire Wednesday morning to transact some business at Asbury Park, and after reaching there she started home, reaching Allenhurst she entered a bathhouse.

How a Philosophical and Humorous London Reporter Described the Duchess of Sutherland's Recent Unique Experiment.

LONDON, July 18.—The society season of 1901 in London would have been non-existent but for the experiment by the Duchess of Sutherland. As becomes a lady who has for brother the Earl of Rosslyn and for half-sister the Countess of Warwick, her grace inherits that name hue of resolution which is not afraid to see its name in the papers. The lifeboat fund needed money, the war has exhausted the possibilities of bazaar and the court mourning precludes a charity ball. What more simple than to throw open a stately mansion and let anyone who pays 2 guineas for a ticket stand the chance of a smile from a titled hostess and rub shoulders with her aristocratic friends? The Duchess of Sutherland knew something of human nature when she put the idea in the practice at Stafford House among the royal residences of St. James', near Marlborough House, where the King lives.

It is true that though the duke was in the house at the time, he did not accompany the duchess and her friends to confront the paying guests who had come to have their money's worth of the atmosphere of the upper circles, and possibly some ticket holders think they should have a rebate on the money paid as a set-off against his grace's levity. Yet the occasion was unique, and it has not wanted for a most entertaining chronicler. The paper which boomed the fete for days beforehand with the most outspoken vulgarity, shouting to all outsiders to pay their money and get inside to see the duchess smile in her own home, happened to be represented on the great night itself by a social philosopher and humorist who did justice to the entire performance. This is what he wrote:

"At 8 o'clock Mr. Sim, the dignified major-domo of the house, went out on the carpet laid under the portico and looked upon the outer world. Over the way the pavement of the quadrangle was paved with people who had all the higher social instincts, but did not see their way to indulge in them at the price. They were not coming in, but

PRETTY AND VERY SMART
GIRL DOWN IN TENNESSEE

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 18.—Jane Berry is one of the most beautiful girls in Tennessee. She has just been graduated and is now a debutante. She is regarded as one of the most brilliant young women of the city, and as she has the prestige of family, social ambition and is accomplished in many respects, her friends are making predictions for her which, if they are only half fulfilled, will make her one of the famous women of the South.

Mr. Sim looked upon them with a mild and sympathetic gaze. For this was the one night in his long and dignified career when the hot polloi were to be welcomed and conciliated.

"Mr. Sim is distinguished among the most distinguished of the major-domos, maitres d'hotel, and butlers of the highest monde. They say that the king's own servants look up to him as the leader of their profession. The seal is set upon his aristocratic fame by a remark which is attributed to him.

"They say that he once went to see Mr. Beerboom Tree play Hamlet. Asked afterward what he thought of it, he is reported to have remarked: 'Well, it's extraordinary the various ways the lower orders have of getting their living. In fact, there is no one in Derbyshire who looks like a better aristocrat than the point of view than Mr. Sim.'

But last night, in the sacred cause of charity, he had assumed a humanitarian frame of mind, just as it had been eleven days before, when he had looked forth upon the outer two-guinea-paying world with so affable and sympathetic that two ladies in hats and evening dresses, and two trousseaus went up with confidence and presented their tickets and said: 'Which is the way in, your grace?' He led them in with dignified condescension.

"They were first by much. Other paying guests followed in crowds and waited about the entrance hall or sank into tapestry chairs at the foot of the magnificent staircase and waited for the duchess to arrive to receive them.

"By 9 o'clock there was a good-sized crush, and the lady journalists, who were waiting in the entrance hall for the press agent who was to have been there to supply them with programs and information, were all mistaken for the duchess by many of the new arrivals.

"The work of the night was the difficulty of telling who was there. There was a widespread impression that there ought to have been an administrative committee, as there is at the society functions at the Holborn Town Hall in the dancing season, to point out who was which, and to make presentations and effect introductions when desired.

"And it was certainly rather annoying to find out that a lady whose dress you had seen in the morning, and who was a well-known figure in the society, was really a detective from Scotland Yard. For even in the case of Stafford House are not thrown into a two-guinea lucky bag.

"There were detectives all over the place. With admirable foresight the police authorities had in the morning supplied a list of names from each district from which two-guinea society aspirants were likely to come. These were really a detective force, and there several from Kilburn and Vine street.

"Downstairs, behind the Grand Hall, there were most of the beautiful rooms open and several of them arranged as buffets. The duchess's own sitting room was on view, though the guests had to lift up the white covers, see the beauties of the silken upholstery.

"The party of the evening began to fulfill its part of the contract and to arrive in such swarms as almost to obscure the 2-guinea aspirants. If people had said a

THE NEW PROGRAM.

The table of employees, union and nonunion, in Wednesday's Post-Dispatch showed that 218,000 men may be drawn into the strike of steel workers. In the allied steel companies there are 82,000 union and 135,000 nonunion men. The strike is not yet general, but it may become so and the entire force of workers may cease work.

These figures illustrate the condition brought about by the consolidation of industries. Formerly a strike meant the cessation of labor in one or two mills, but now, in order to be effective, all of the mills in kindred industries which have been brought into alliance must be closed. If the strike becomes general, practically no steel will be manufactured in the United States.

As consolidations progress it may be possible for the production of the necessities of life to cease entirely, or for the entire railroad system of the country to be tied up.

This condition not only brings a new and tremendous problem for the people to solve, but it places additional responsibility upon the men who control the industries and those who control the labor organizations. Upon their conduct and the welfare of the people depends as never before. They are in larger measure than ever responsible for the preservation of public order and the continuation of necessary productive and commercial activities. There never was a time when reason and moderation in the leaders of capital and the leaders of labor were so necessary. Under present conditions every means to secure settlement without a strike should be exhausted. The strike should be terminated by reasonable concessions on both sides at the earliest possible moment. Absolute order and peace must be insisted upon.

Should the strike arrive before Sunday, the day of prayer may be readily turned into a day of thanksgiving.

TWO FORMS OF PHILANTHROPY.

Mr. Carnegie has announced the dictum that a man who dies rich dies disgraced is feverishly engaged in distributing his enormous fortune to the amassing of which he devoted most of his life and energies.

The late James E. Yeatman, beginning life with abundant means and having had many opportunities to amass wealth died, as the probating of his will showed, possessed of $500.

There is quite a difference between the method adopted by Mr. Yeatman to attain the honor, according to Mr. Carnegie, of dying poor and that adopted by Mr. Carnegie. Mr. Carnegie gave the best years of his life to making money and devotes the remainder to distributing it. Mr. Yeatman spent his life in doing better things than making money. He was too busy engaged in helping his fellow men to make money. He liked the work of philanthropy better than the work of making money. Mr. Yeatman did not give his money alone to his fellow men, but his life and energy. He lived his philanthropy. He gave his fellow men something better than mere money.

There is no disgrace in making money by honest methods, nor in dying possessed of wealth. Money is a mere incident. It is sometimes the accompaniment, the inevitable reward of great service to society, but the best of philanthropy is service, not money. The man who illustrates philanthropy in his daily life by giving his talents to the service of mankind finds a happier form of philanthropy than the man who measures his philanthropy in mere cash.

Calculations are being made in East St. Louis for a plant for the manufacture of airships and balloons for the World's Fair. The proposed trolley line of balloons to carry passengers across the Mississippi would interest a great many people.

WHAT WILL SHE DO NEXT?

Beautiful woman. We all admire her and we all wonder what she is going to do next. The health of the world depends on women. For centuries they have labored on their instinct to add them in making a race of physically perfect men. Now they are turning to science.

Not far from St. Louis women have taken up a study which has hitherto appealed only to men. A study which will leave its inevitable impress on the coming generation.

A St. Louis woman has set the pace along a hitherto untraveled road. She will have many imitators.

Fine needlework does not occupy all of the time of the modern woman. She knows how to make two dollars out of one. She plunges into the maelstrom of speculation. She is athletic and she doesn't shut her eyes when she fires a revolver.

Withal she is delightfully feminine. The filmy lawn of her sleeve conceals a well-rounded and compactly-built muscle. Above all things the next Sunday Post-Dispatch will be a paper for women. No woman who fails to read it can class herself among the strictly up to date.

Before a clergyman is chosen to deliver a funeral discourse it would be well for the mourners to procure a synopsis of what he intends to say. The Rev. C. C. Miller has astonished men by saying at the funeral of Congressman Martin: "I would have been better if Mr. Martin would have been on the field of battle than to have lived to lead the life he led. He was in public office the better portion of his life."

Life, and made in one office $100,000, but was sent home for burial in a cheap pine coffin, furnished by the Government. His life has been a tragedy, and the use of liquor has made it so."

The fine showing made by Missouri butter at the Buffalo Exposition ought to prove a great stimulus to the dairy interest of the State. The best way to meet the oleomargarine competition is to make perfect butter. None who can get the best Missouri butter will accept any inferior substitute.

SPEED OF STREET CARS.

"The car was run at an unlawful rate of speed," said the coroner's jury in its verdict on the death of Mrs. Bridget O'Connell.

In his charge to the grand jury, Judge Wood directed attention to the question of "reckless manner and rate of speed under which the cars are operated."

It is the general impression that the legal rate of speed is eight miles an hour. But the ordinance of 1892, prohibiting vehicles from running faster than eight miles an hour, has been abrogated in the case of the street railways by the special ordinances granting them charters, which permit a higher rate of speed. The people generally should bear this in mind, because it means that very great care must be exercised by the citizen if he would be safe in crossing the street car tracks.

Does the Municipal Assembly realize this? Does it realize that on its action, in the passage of a new, thoroughgoing reform ordinance, the safety and peace of the people of St. Louis and their World's Fair visitors will depend?

The Associated Fraternities of America have enthusiastically endorsed a project for a fraternal building on the World's Fair grounds that shall be the largest of its kind ever erected. There is to be a room for each society sharing in the cost of the building.

THE BASEBALL REVIVAL.

St. Louis just now offers the managers of baseball teams an object lesson on the value of honesty and good work.

Interest in professional baseball was about dead at the beginning of the present season. It was in the throes of dissolution. From the best baseball city—a city of enthusiastic "fans"—St. Louis had become nearly the worst. The confidence of the baseball public in St. Louis' management had been destroyed. The capital of baseball enthusiasm had been dissipated by a series of disappointments. The public did not believe it was getting honest treatment.

But within a month a radical change has been wrought. The fine work of the Cardinals which has advanced them from the bottom of the list to second place has restored confidence and revived enthusiasm. St. Louis is again a good baseball city. The sport draws immense crowds. There is plenty of money in the box office.

It is a new sensation for St. Louisans to be proud of their baseball nine and they are enjoying it. The Cardinals have earned the good will and confidence of the public. If they win first place the "fans" will give them the earth and a hall of fame.

Honesty pays in baseball. It pays in all things.

Though nearly half the claims filed with the Pension Bureau on account of disabilities incurred in the Spanish-American war have been rejected, there has been a net increase of 4306 names on the pension roll in the past fiscal year, and the expenditures have increased to $138,531,494. War costs the United States more than it costs any other nation. The American taxpayer has more cause than any other to demand universal and everlasting peace.

While other stock starves in a drouth, the Angora goat of the Ozarks waxes fat and rejoices in himself. With Kaffir corn, alfalfa and the Angora goat in every part of the State, Missouri would be in good shape to meet drouths while waiting for the development of irrigation.

In preparing Porto Rico for American life, what has been done with the machine placed in cemetery buildings to enable aged paupers to commit suicide? Such a machine was mentioned in Porto Rico letters some time ago.

Tolstoi is reported to be very ill. Doubtless his mental apparatus was so severely strained in his discussion with our profound young Senator Beveridge that his entire system has gone wrong.

Little Boba has a desire to visit the United States. He may come in 1903, when Uncle Sam may have something worth showing him at Jefferson Barracks and in St. Louis.

The Gov. Odell boom in New York is carrying more terror to the soul of Vice-President Theodore than would the roar of 10,000 mountain lions.

Between hard coal trusts and soft coal combines, the consumer is wondering whether he will buy anthracite or bituminous.

The electric wire from which the insulation has been worn off is also preparing a notable summer death list.

POST-DISPATCH SNAP SHOTS.

In the World's Fair period the lumbermen are likely to make a great deal more than their board.

A returned hero says that the Philippine climate is healthful and that he lost 35 pounds in weight while he was in the islands. This is interesting to fat men.

Every man who puts his bare foot on a cold oil cloth in winter will think of ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed. The "Czar" has organized a great oil-cloth trust.

In Pennsylvania it took a postal card 23 years to reach its destination, only 60 miles away. The Pennsylvanians evidently don't want any pneumatic tube service in their mails.

The Missouri cow, the Missouri hen and the Missouri mule might be neatly mingled in a World's Fair design for Missouri. Each is unexcelled and every year adds to the fame of all.

The Governor of Georgia has made Mrs. Legare Hill Bowles a major-general of militia. As Queen Victoria was for many years a colonel, why should not a deserving American woman be made a major-general?

That the coatless idea is gaining is shown in the fact that many men, while yet discarding their coats on hot days, are carrying them on their arms. The summer man who carries his coat on his arm will soon have it off entirely.

A hot summer is sure to give additional publicity to the difference of opinion in regard to dogs. The increase in quarrels over dogs has been very marked this season. Possibly a canine board of arbitration will have to be established if Interference war over Fido is to be prevented in unusually hot periods.

The survivors of the present intense season will get some consolation from the fact that no coming summer can be hotter than the one they have been enduring. It may be that Providence has intended this year's heat merely to introduce the coatless man and insure summer comfort in the future for all civilized nations.

A GENTLE HINT FROM PA

YOU AND I.
Only just you and I can know
How each with each together grow.
Comfortless never will we go;
Together we can fate deny—
You and I.
You and I.
Only just you and I can feel
How sweet it is for we, for weal,
With love to all our future seal,
Till heads grow gray and death is nigh—
You and I.
You and I.
Only just you and I together share
Hearts that to others are not laid bare—I know, you know, why should we care?
Love lives and so we fate defy—
You and I.
—Salt Lake Tribune.

HELPLESS.

While waiting for a steamer to continue his journey, Strogoft hears a proclamation by the governor that no stranger or foreigner is permitted to leave the province he is in.

A THOUGHT FOR THE DAY.

If you live according to what nature requires, you will never be poor; if according to the notions of men, you will never be rich. SENECA.

TOO MANY RECOMMENDATIONS.

"Our great difficulty is in getting good bookkeepers. The last one we had it took a month to read him out of the market. And was he tried and found wanting."

LIGHT REPEAT.

Hungry Horace: Kind lady, can't you give me some of that? I ain't eat nothin' since day before yesterday.
Kind Lady: And what did you eat then?
Hungry Horace: Nothin' but a market report in an old paper.—Baltimore American.

NEW KIND OF SALVE.

There is a young lady in the West End who has very pretty brown hair. It is not at all remarkable in a West End girl, but the story of her hair is a little unusual.

TOUGH BACON.

P. J. Schatt, manager of the Terminal Hotel barber shop, found some bacon no razor would cut.

HAIR, NOT TALENT.

The tour that Pietro Mascagni, the Italian composer, is to make of the United States has been postponed for another season so that he may raise a crop of hair like his countrymen.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

(This column is open to everybody who has a complaint to make, a grievance to ventilate, information to give or a subject of general interest to discuss, or a public service to acknowledge, and who can put the idea into less than 100 words. Letters placed in this column.)

Fender Ordinances.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Some days ago I read an article in your issue referring to the fact that certain ordinances had been introduced to the Council, and referred to the railroad committee of that body, requiring the street railway companies to discard the useless fenders they are using now, and equip them with fenders that are really and truly life-saving devices, to be approved by the Board of Public Improvements.

Trials of New Fenders.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Your paper has always shown a willingness to serve the best interests of the people, and as our citizens wish to keep posted in regard to what is being done to provide street cars with fenders that will protect human life, we feel confident that the Post-Dispatch will continue the good work and give us cuts and descriptions of the fenders suggested to the Board.

Weather Predictions.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
We had, down in Kentucky, a very successful farmer by name of Smith who could not read or write and cared only for books. He had a fresh supply of books around him, and as soon as he could read he would get one and return and read it to his family.

Suggestion to Mr. Carnegie.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
As Mr. Carnegie wishes to die a poor man, can he not make a better disposal of his dollars than giving sums to erect fine libraries to large cities? Why don't he, for instance, with some money, purchase a good tract of land, divide it into small plots, erect comfortable home structures, and find some poor, industrious families to place them, then, according to their crop, exact from the money they give them a fair chance to pay for that farm? If he is helped by religious people, wouldn't it be better than erecting fine libraries where poor day laborers could not have a chance to read those costly volumes? Let us read those costly volumes.

COOKING WITH SUNSHINE.

From the Washington Post.
It is no idle jest when an Arizonian tells you that he can fry eggs in the sun. It is a common occurrence, and I remember one road housekeeper telling me that on July 1 to September, he never had a fire in his kitchen stove. Even bread, which is baked after the fashion of Indian territory, is baked on a rock in the sun, while apples and peaches are sun-dried. It is a fact that the rays of light are as strong as the rays of heat.
